erreur, et dans la plupart des cas il fallait que toutes les lettres du nom se trouvent à proximité de mon champ visuel pour que l'erreur se produise. Mais, s'expliquent par le fait que je lisais précisément la fin d'une remarque sur une sorte de mauvais style qui règne dans certains travaux scientifiques et dont je me sentais moi-même coupable dans une certaine mesure.»

f) H. Sachs: «Devant ce qui frappe les autres, il garde, lui, une rigide impassibilité» (Stiefmutterheit). Ce dernier mot m'étonna et, en regardant de plus près, je vis que le mot imprimé était non Stiefmutterheit, mais Stiefmutter (finesse, sentiment de style). Ce passage faisait partie d'un panegyrique exagérément enthousiaste, qu'un auteur que j'estimais beaucoup consacrait à un historien qui ne m'était pas sympathique, parce qu'il possédait à un degré très prononcé les traits spécifiques du «professeur allemand».

g) Le Dr Marvell Eibenschütz rapporte un cas d'erreur de lecture au cours d'un travail philologique: «Je m'occupe de l'édition critique du "Livre des Martyrs", recueil des légendes de la Haute et Moyenne Allemagne, qui doit paraître dans les "Textes Allemands du Moyen Age", publiés par l'Académie des Sciences de Prusse. L'ouvrage, encore non imprimé, était très peu connu; il n'existait au-dessus qu'un seul mémoire de J. Haupt³. Haupt, en écrivant son mémoire, avait sous les yeux, non le

3) Dans le cas précis, la seule ressemblance entre le nom et le titre a provoqué l'erreur, consistant dans le fait que l'un et l'autre commencent par les lettres Bf. Blander, Blaukirchener, Zentralblatt für Psychoanalyse, I, 576. Ueber das mittelhochdeutsche Buch der Martyrer », Wissenschaftsberichte, 1867, tome LXX, p. 101 et sq.

Editorial

Offline classes make the students entirely dependent on their teachers. Sometimes, students don't even take the trouble of going through the lesson as the teacher is sure to take the trouble of explaining it to them and even provide them with necessary notes. This kills the creativity in students, making them completely dependent on their teachers for all their academic needs.

Well, offline classes are not the best option after all. But neither are online classes, for a fact. Every other thing, or concept, has its pros and cons. It is upon us to consider all the pointers and decide which suits us the best.

So, best of luck making that decision for your kid!

Air Pollution LIVE Updates: Delhi Govt to Hire 1,000 Private CNG Buses; Schools in Capital to Remain Shut Till Further Orders

Delhi environment minister Gopal Rai yesterday urged the Union Environment Minister to clarify on the issue of the contribution of stubble burning to the pollution levels in the national capital, claiming that the Centre's affidavit on the issue has created confusion. "In a single affidavit itself, the central government has submitted in the Supreme Court two contrasting statements. One says that stubble burning contributes to four per cent of the pollution in Delhi-NCR while in the same affidavit, the other statement indicates that a meeting was held a day earlier in which it was told that the contribution of stubble-burning in Delhi's pollution is 35 to 40 per cent," he said. He said clarification on the issue is necessary so that the right strategy can be framed to deal with pollution. The minister also said that the data of SAFAR presents a different picture
